WINTERGREEN FUND, INC.

A MESSAGE TO OUR SHAREHOLDERS

JUNE 30, 2010 (Unaudited)

Dear Fellow Wintergreen Fund Shareholder,

During the first half of 2010, the global securities markets suffered the same fate as the nursery rhyme character Humpty Dumpty. As we all know, after Humpty fell, “all the king’s horses and all the king’s men couldn’t put Humpty together again.” Despite these difficult markets, Wintergreen Fund, Inc.’s (the “Fund”) performance for the first six months of 2010 was -0.43% outperforming the Standard and Poor’s 500 Composite Index (“S&P 500 Index”) which returned -6.65%. Undoubtedly, our belief is that we will see positive changes in global markets and that some economies will improve more quickly than others. We also believe that as these economies improve, there is going to be a greater focus on company-specific strengths and weaknesses, rather than an improvement across all companies.

Some companies and certain financing systems with serious issues cannot be easily righted. Many investors have learned a lesson during recent years that predominantly unrealistic expectations were an unsupportable fad. If we want to experience a plausible reduction in both risk and volatility in order to have companies and markets return to a period of strength, then systematic bad loans and over-leveraged financial practices cannot be permitted to return as the norm. The concept of having no market risk with zero volatility and unrealistically high market returns is clearly an unsupportable paradigm: risk and the corresponding volatility simply cannot be wished away. Although often hidden from plain view during times of prosperity and enthusiasm, they exist somewhere and in the recent past we have all witnessed just how widespread and deep the risk and volatility can go.

There will need to be changes in various markets and economies as managements scrutinize and correct what needs attention in their corporate goals, operations, and practices. Some management teams have taken advantage of the recent challenging market movements and have strengthened their positions to hopefully create greater shareholder value in the future. We believe an example of such a company is Genting Bhd (“Genting”), a portfolio holding for the last few years. Part of our ongoing investment approach is to examine businesses globally to see if a type of business that is lucrative in one area of the world has also been lucrative in other markets or countries. When we started studying the entertainment and gaming industry, we looked at similar firms around the world, and we came to the conclusion that Genting was potentially one of the best-positioned gaming and entertainment companies. Genting owns a large stake in Genting Malaysia Bhd (“Genting Malaysia”) and the two companies operate as a conglomerate with a gaming monopoly in Malaysia, gaming duopoly in the newly-opened Singapore market, gaming assets in the U.K., as well as palm oil plantations, power plants, and energy investments around Asia. Our positive view of Genting was again confirmed earlier this year when I went to Malaysia, the Philippines, and Singapore and saw their operations first-hand. Both Genting and Genting Malaysia’s balance sheets as well as their competitive positions, make the companies stand out, as did the large amounts of cash flow they generate. Genting has used their strong balance sheet to invest in projects which over the long-run appear well-positioned to benefit the Fund’s shareholders. They recently won the bidding process for the New York Aqueduct casino project, which will bring New York City its first world class casino. Genting is a family-controlled business with a management team that owns a significant amount of stock and whose interests are directly aligned with those of outside shareholders.

Despite the current general consensus among many investors to own few equities and to favor short-term instruments, we believe that well-selected stocks will reap better rewards for investors. Many people have sold off the equity portion of their investment portfolio and are hiding in cash. For some, the ongoing selling pressure to meet other financial obligations has forced sales of securities at bargain prices. We believe the best opportunities are often found by looking beyond the companies that are included in various stock market indexes.

As the Fund purchased one such security, my business partner was reminded of a Perry Como tune her favorite great aunt Clara used to sing:

“Catch a falling star and put it in your pocket save it for a rainy day
Catch a falling star and put it in your pocket never let it fade away.”

Clara was a wise woman who understood that if you have something of value and hold onto it, eventually its value might be recognized. Yes, Clara was sometimes out of step with the consensus and from what I am told, she had a bit of a stubborn streak, but she was almost always right. Currently, over $2.8 trillion sits on the sidelines in money market funds; that is enough cash to purchase nearly 28% of the securities within the S&P 500 Index at market prices. The crowd appears frightened. Among investors, a great malaise continues despite the fact that many of the richest people in the world have achieved their wealth through ownership of all or a portion of good businesses that are held for a number of years. We believe today’s markets present opportunities to purchase such companies at compelling valuations.

Long-term success often depends on taking actions that are contrary to what is popular and easy. This is true of both selecting securities and managing the businesses underlying those securities. Businesses that maintain a long-term perspective and act rationally when others panic often emerge in a stronger position than their less level-headed peers. We believe this is the case with Birchcliff Energy Ltd. (“Birchcliff”). Birchcliff is a Canadian oil and gas company whose primary assets are a world class natural gas field and a low cost oil deposit in northwestern Alberta, Canada. As natural gas prices fell through the second half of 2008 and into 2009, Birchcliff continued to invest in its business at a time when many in the industry were pulling back. The results of management’s good sense and long-term thinking are evident today – oil and gas production for Birchcliff was up 67% in 2009 versus 2007, while proven oil and gas reserves rose by 146% over the same time period. This growth has allowed Birchcliff to increase its bank borrowing capacity, which management has used prudently to continue to invest at seemingly compelling rates of return. Production continues to increase while operating costs per barrel are falling, a compelling combination for shareholder value creation. We are delighted to report that the Fund is one of Birchcliff’s largest shareholders. Of the total Birchcliff shares currently owned by the Fund, 47.3% were purchased during the first half of 2009, when most investors were running for the exits. The Fund is now reaping some of the rewards of its multiple purchases since Birchcliff shares were up 176% from their low on February 23, 2009 through June 30, 2010. Going against the crowd is not always easy, but it has the potential to pay off in the long-run.

As Mark Twain said, “Travel is fatal to prejudice.” This is true with respect to people and cultures; it is also true regarding securities. As of June 30, 2010, on a direct and look thru basis, the invested assets of the Fund were approximately 65% outside the U.S. This percentage has increased significantly since the inception of the Fund. We are simply finding better opportunities, discounts, and potential upside beyond the U.S. borders. In part, this may be true because Asia had its financial crisis in the 1990’s and has seemingly learned from its mistakes of the past. Good businesses with pricing power, free cash flows, and a global presence have decided advantages over businesses focused on generally mature and leveraged economies like the U.S. and Europe where debt liquidation may take some time to work out.

For the vast majority, a comfort zone for investing in equities will not return until positive market momentum has returned. In other words, countless investors may begin buying only when it is too late to participate in the often large gains of an initial market recovery. On the other hand, we have noticed that some of the habitually smartest long-term investors have continued to buy equities or entire companies.

The Fund's return during the first half of 2010 was negatively impacted by the strengthening of the U.S. dollar against many of the European currencies during the period. These losses were partially offset by the Fund's currency hedging.

I thank you for your continued investment in Wintergreen Fund. As you have probably surmised, I really like our current portfolio. Our continued analysis and travel confirm our conviction in our investment decisions. We believe the future is bright because, in our view, many of the Fund's investments have the potential to capitalize on the passage of time, the increased spending of the global consumer, and the wealth creation taking place in the growing markets of the world.

Sincerely,

David J. Winters, CFA
Portfolio Manager

WINTERGREEN FUND, INC.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Note 1. Organization

Wintergreen Fund, Inc. (the "Fund") is registered as an open-end, diversified management investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Act"), as amended. The Fund was organized as a Maryland corporation on May 5, 2005 and commenced operations on October 17, 2005. The Fund is authorized to issue one billion shares of beneficial interest with $0.001 per share par value. The Fund seeks capital appreciation and may invest in securities of foreign issuers, which may subject it to investment risks not normally associated with investing in securities of the United States.

Note 2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

The following summarizes the significant accounting policies of the Fund:

Security Valuation — The Fund calculates its net asset value per share on each business day the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") is open, as of the close of the NYSE; normally 4:00 pm Eastern Time. Portfolio securities traded or dealt on one or more securities exchanges (whether domestic or foreign) and not subject to restrictions against resale shall be valued (i) at the last quoted sale price or, in the absence of a sale, (ii) at the mean of the last bid and ask price. For securities traded or dealt on more than one exchange, or on one or more exchanges and on the over-the-counter market, quotations from the market in which the security is primarily traded are used. For an option, the last quoted sale on an exchange or board of trade on which the option is traded shall be used. In the absence of a sale, the mean between the highest bid and lowest asked prices at the close of the exchanges and/or board of trade on which the option trades shall be used. Securities not traded or dealt on any securities exchange for which over-the-counter market quotations are readily available generally shall be valued at the mean of the current bid and ask price. Money market instruments that mature in 60 days or less may be valued at amortized cost.

Securities are valued at fair value, in accordance with procedures adopted by the Fund's Board of Directors (the "Board"), when 1) market quotations are insufficient or not readily available; 2) prices or values available do not represent fair value in the judgment of the Fund's investment manager; or 3) securities are determined to be illiquid.

As of June 30, 2010, Current Group, LLC, a restricted and illiquid security, was priced at fair value as determined by the Board's Valuation Committee pursuant to the Fund's valuation procedures. This security has an acquisition date of December 28, 2006. At June 30, 2010, the fair value of this security was $0, which represents 0% of net assets and has a current cost of $20,100,000. The inputs and valuation techniques used to measure Current Group, LLC's fair value were based upon the best available financial information from Current Group, LLC and the Investment Manager (as defined in Note 3). There were no changes in the valuation techniques used to value Current Group, LLC during the period ended June 30, 2010.

Security Transactions, Investment Income, and Realized Gain/Loss — The Fund accounts for investment transactions on trade date. Dividend income is recorded on the ex-dividend date and is recorded net of unrecoverable withholding tax. Interest income and expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. Identified cost of investments sold is used to determine the gain and loss for both financial statement and Federal income tax purposes.

WINTERGREEN FUND, INC.

Foreign Currencies — Foreign currency amounts are translated into U.S. dollars based on the foreign exchange rate in effect generally at the close of the NYSE (normally 4:00 pm Eastern Time) on the date of valuation. If the foreign exchange rate in effect at the close of the NYSE is not available from the Fund's pricing agent, the currency may be valued using the foreign exchange rate standard provided by the Fund's pricing agent. The portion of the results of operations arising from changes in the foreign exchange rates on investments and the portion due to fluctuations arising from changes in the market prices of securities held are not isolated. Such fluctuations are reflected in net realized and unrealized gain or loss on the Statement of Operations.

Reported net realized foreign exchange gains or losses arise from sales of foreign currencies, currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions, and the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest, and foreign withholding taxes recorded on the Fund's books and the U.S. dollar equivalent of the amounts actually received or paid. Net unrealized foreign exchange gains and losses arise from changes in the fair values of assets and liabilities, other than investments in securities at fiscal period end, resulting from changes in exchange rates.

Forward Currency Contracts — During the period ended June 30, 2010, the Fund entered into transactions to purchase or sell foreign currencies to protect the U.S. dollar value of the underlying portfolio securities against the effect of possible adverse movements in foreign exchange rates. Foreign currency transactions involve certain costs and risks. The Fund incurs foreign exchange expenses in converting assets from one currency to another. Forward currency contracts involve a risk of loss if the Investment Manager (as defined in Note 3) is inaccurate in predicting currency movements. The projection of short-term currency market movements is extremely difficult and the successful execution of a short-term hedging strategy is highly uncertain. The precise matching of forward currency contract amounts and the value of the securities involved are generally not possible. Accordingly, it may be necessary for the Fund to purchase additional foreign currency if the fair value of the security is less than the amount of the foreign currency the Fund is obligated to deliver under the forward currency contract and the decision is made to sell the security and make delivery of the foreign currency. The use of forward currency contracts as a hedging technique does not eliminate fluctuations in the prices of the underlying securities the Fund owns or intends to acquire, but it does fix a rate of exchange in advance. Although forward currency contracts can reduce the risk of loss due to a decline in the value of the hedged currencies, they also limit any potential gain that might result from an increase in the value of the currencies. These instruments involve market risk, credit risk, or both kinds of risks, in excess of the amount recognized in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. (See Note 6)

Market and Credit Risks — Market risk of derivative financial instruments is the potential for changes in the fair value due to market changes, including interest and foreign exchange rate movements, as well as fluctuations in security prices. Credit risk is the possibility that a loss may occur due to the failure of a counterparty to perform according to the terms of a contract. Credit risk is limited to amounts recorded by the Fund as assets. Realized gain or loss includes net gain or loss on transactions that have terminated by settlement or, for tax purposes, by the Fund entering into offsetting commitments with the same counterparty. The Fund's Investment Manager (as defined in Note 3) is responsible for determining the value of the underlying collateral. In the normal course of business, the Fund invests in securities and enters into transactions where risks exist due to fluctuations in the market (market risk) or failure of the other party to a transaction to perform (credit risk). The value of securities held by the Fund may decline in response to certain events, including those directly involving the companies whose securities are owned by the Fund; conditions affecting the general economy; overall market changes; local, regional or global political, social or economic instability; and currency and interest rate and price fluctuations. Similar to credit risk, the Fund may be exposed to counterparty risk, or the risk that an entity with which the Fund has unsettled or open transactions may default. Financial assets, which potentially expose the Fund to credit and counterparty risks, consist principally of investments, forward currency contracts, and cash due from counterparties. The extent of the Fund's exposure to credit and counterparty risks in respect to these financial assets approximates their value as recorded in the Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Restricted Securities — The Fund may invest in restricted debt and equity securities which cannot be offered for public sale without first being registered under the Securities Act of 1933. To the extent the Fund purchases securities which are restricted as to resale, the Fund may incur additional risks and costs. Restricted securities may be particularly difficult to value, their disposition may require greater effort and expense than that of more liquid securities, and the Fund may incur costs in connection with the registration of restricted securities in order to dispose of such securities to the public.

On December 28, 2006, the Fund contributed $20,100,000 for a limited liability member interest in Current Group, LLC and entered into a registration rights agreement with respect to shares of common stock into which their interests may be converted. These registration rights include (1) two demand registrations commencing after the earlier of (A) the fifth anniversary of the date of the registration rights agreement or (B) the first anniversary of the consummation of an initial public offering ("IPO") of Current Group, LLC common stock, (2) three Form S-3 registration demands commencing after the first anniversary of the consummation of an IPO, and (3) unlimited "piggyback" registrations commencing following the consummation of an IPO. No quoted market price exists for the Fund's interest in Current Group, LLC. The Fund's interest has been valued in accordance with the procedures adopted for the valuation of portfolio securities by the Fund's Board.

Securities Sold Short — The Fund may sell a security short to, among other things, increase investment returns based on the anticipation of a decline in the fair value of a security. A short sale is a transaction in which the Fund sells a security that it does not own. To complete the transaction, the Fund must borrow the security in order to deliver it to the buyer. The Fund must replace the borrowed security by purchasing it at market price in the future at the time of replacement. The price may be higher or lower than the price at which the Fund sold the security.

The Fund incurs a loss from a short sale if the price of the security increases between the date of the short sale and the date the Fund replaces the borrowed security. The Fund realizes a profit if the price of the security declines between those dates. A gain, limited to the difference between the replacement price and the price at which the Fund sold the security short, or a loss, unlimited in size, will be recognized upon the termination of a short sale.

Until the Fund replaces the borrowed security, the Fund will maintain a segregated account with the custodian, holding cash and/or long securities to sufficiently cover its short position on a daily basis. Dividends paid on securities sold short are recorded as an expense on the Fund's books. As of June 30, 2010, the Fund did not have any short positions.

WINTERGREEN FUND, INC.

JUNE 30, 2010 (Unaudited)

Distributions to Shareholders — Distributions to shareholders of net investment income and net capital gains, if any, are declared and paid at least annually. The amount of distribution will vary, and there is no guarantee the Fund will pay either income or capital gain distributions. Distributions are based on amounts calculated in accordance with applicable Federal income tax regulations, which may differ from accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“GAAP”). These differences are due primarily to differing treatments of income and gain on various investment securities held by the Fund, timing differences, and differing characterizations of distributions made by the Fund. The Fund records distributions on its books on the ex-dividend date. For the semi-annual period ended June 30, 2010, the Fund did not have any distributions.

Federal Taxes — The Fund intends to qualify each year as a regulated investment company under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code and distribute all its taxable income. Therefore, no Federal income or excise tax provision is required.

The Fund has reviewed the tax positions for the open tax years as of December 31, 2009, and has determined that no provision for income tax is required in the Fund’s financial statements. Tax years 2006-2009 generally remain subject to examination by the Fund’s major tax jurisdictions.

Repurchase Agreements — The Fund may invest in repurchase agreements. The Fund, through its custodian, receives delivery of the underlying collateral, whose fair value exceeds or equals the repurchase price plus expected transaction costs. In the case of a tri-party agreement, the collateral is held by an agent bank. The Fund’s Investment Manager (as defined in Note 3) is responsible for determining the value of the underlying collateral. In the event of default, the Fund may have difficulties with the disposition of any such securities held as collateral. As of June 30, 2010, there were no repurchase agreements held by the Fund.

Contractual Obligations — The Fund enters into contracts in the normal course of business that contain a variety of indemnifications. The Fund’s maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown. However, the Fund has not had any prior claims or losses pursuant to these contracts. Fund management has reviewed the Fund’s existing contracts and expects the risk of loss to be remote.

Redemption Fee — The Fund will generally charge a redemption fee of 2.00% of the net asset value of shares redeemed if the shares are sold within 60 calendar days of purchase. The fee is charged for the benefit of the remaining shareholders and is paid to the Fund. To calculate redemption fees, the Fund uses the first-in, first-out method to determine the holding period. Under this method, the date of redemption is compared with the earliest purchase date of the shares held in the account. The fee is reflected as paid-in capital.

Use of Estimates — These financial statements are prepared in accordance with GAAP, which requires Fund management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements, and the reported amounts of increase and decrease in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Actual amounts could differ from those estimates.

Fair Valuation Accounting Standards — The Fund has adopted fair valuation accounting standards which establish a definition of fair value and set out a hierarchy for measuring fair value. These standards require additional disclosures about the various inputs and valuation techniques used to develop the measurements of fair value, a discussion in changes in valuation techniques used to develop the measurements of fair value, and a discussion in changes in valuation techniques and related inputs during the period. These inputs are summarized in the three broad levels listed that follow:

- Level 1 — unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets
- Level 2 — other significant inputs (including quoted prices of similar securities, interest rates, prepayment speeds, credit risk, etc.)
- Level 3 — significant unobservable inputs (including the Fund's own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments)

The inputs or methodology used for valuing securities are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities.

The following table summarizes the valuation of the Fund's securities under the fair value hierarchy levels as of June 30, 2010.

In January 2010, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Accounting Standards Update No. 2010-06, "Improving Disclosures about Fair Value Measurements" ("ASU 2010-06"). ASU 2010-06 requires new disclosures regarding transfers in and out of Levels 1 and 2 effective for interim and annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2009. The Fund discloses significant transfers between levels based on valuations at the end of the reporting period. For the period ended June 30, 2010, there were no transfers between Levels 1 and 2. ASU 2010-06 will also require additional details regarding Level 3 transaction activity effective for interim and annual periods beginning after December 15, 2010. Fund management is currently evaluating the effect that this additional requirement will have on the Fund's financial statements.

Shareholder Expenses Example

As a shareholder of the Fund, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including redemption fees, and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees, distribution and/or service (12b-1) fees, and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds.

The following example is based on $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period from January 1, 2010 through June 30, 2010.

Actual Expenses — The first line in the following table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during the period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes — The second line in the following table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing cost of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of other funds.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

JUNE 30, 2010 (Unaudited)

Please note that expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as redemption fees. Therefore, the second line of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transaction costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

	Beginning Account Value January 1, 2010	Ending Account Value June 30, 2010	Expenses Paid During Period*
Actual Return	$1,000.00	$ 995.70	$9.27
Hypothetical Return (5% return before expenses)	$1,000.00	$1,015.51	$9.36

* As expressed below, expenses are equal to the Fund's annualized expense ratio of 1.87%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by the number of days in most recent fiscal half-year/365 to reflect the half-year period

$$\text{Expenses} = \text{Fund's Annualized Expense Ratio} \times \text{Average Account Value Over the Period} \times \frac{\text{Number of Days in Most Recent Fiscal Half Year}}{365}$$

Householding — In an effort to decrease costs, the Fund will reduce the number of duplicate summary prospectuses, annual, and semi-annual reports you receive by sending only one copy of each to those addresses shared by two or more accounts. Call toll-free (888) GOTOGREEN (888-468-6473) to request individual copies of these documents or if your shares are held through a financial institution please contact them directly. The Fund will begin sending individual copies thirty days after receiving your request. This policy does not apply to account statements.
